President's Message:

Fellow Compatriots & Friends…

The November meeting will be exceptional as Florida historian/author Steve Carr takes us back to Prohibition-Era Palm Beach to follow the exploits of John Ashley and Laura Upthegrove, the "King & Queen of the Everglades"!

Carr's book, "Ride with the Ashley Gang", sheds new light on Florida's most notorious gang of outlaws! We'll follow the Ashley gang as they unleash murder, mayhem, bank/train robberies, bootlegging, moonshining, prostitution, and a "to the death blood feud" with the Palm Beach County Sheriff Bob Baker in this incredible tale of Florida's frontier history.

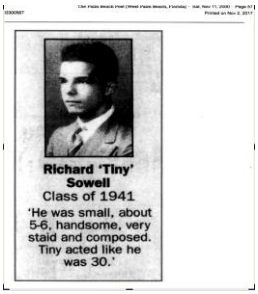

The meeting also features aspiring vocalist, pianist, and Children of the American Revolution Page, Ms. Emma Robbins to sing our National Anthem and God Bless America, plus a "Patriot Bio" delivered by Compatriot Thom Irwin.

In recognition and honor of Veterans Month, each meeting attendees will receive a special "American Veteran Flag" lapel pin donated by Compatriot Thom Irwin.

The Palm Beach Chapter is a historic supporter of our Nation's Veterans, with over 15% of its members serving, from WW II to Iraq. Veteran Compatriots are encouraged to provide their DD-214 to be recognized with the SAR Military Service Medal and welcomed into the FLSSAR Veterans Battalion and the Chapter's own "Band of Brothers."

Chapter Compatriots joined DAR Daughters at the military funeral of WW II US Army soldier Sergeant Richard G. "Tiny" Sowell at the Woodlawn Cemetery in West Palm Beach on 11/10.

A Veteran of many terrible battles in the South Pacific, Sergeant Sowell was killed in Saipan in 1944. His remains were not identified until 2017 however and returned to West Palm Beach on 11/8 for a full Military Funeral. Sgt. Sowell was a native of West Palm Beach, graduate of Palm Beach High School Class of 1941 and sophomore at the University of Florida before entering the Army in 1943.

During the October meeting, the Chapter delivered a special Memorial Service to honor departed Compatriot, Combat Veteran, Past Chapter/State President and Patriot Medal recipient Gerry Meeks.

Veterans Month is always a special opportunity to show our respect and to say "Thank You" to Veterans, Active Service Members and their supportive Families, and to honor the memory of those who sacrificed all at the Altar of Freedom.

The "Chapter's Own", Lauren Goepfert was honored at the November Board of Management meeting for winning both the Chapter, State and National "History Teacher of the Year Award" contests.

The Chapter presented a scholarship check for $1,000 to Palm Beach Atlantic University for an as aspiring History student. We will also induct several new members at the November meeting.

Compatriots Lanman, Tidwell and Pete Miller manned an SAR recruiting display at the annual Palm Beach County Genealogical Club event in West Palm Beach identifying 3 SAR prospects.

The custom Palm Beach Chapter Commemorative Coin is available in honor of the Chapter's 80th Year. The coin notes the four major revolutionary war battles waged in Florida with an illustration of a Minuteman standing guard over Florida with the State moto of "In God We Trust."

These beautiful Collector coins, used as mementos for special chapter guests and patriotic occasions, are available for purchase at just $10 each.

A primary Chapter goal for our continued success is membership development and the mentoring of new members. We are currently at 185 members with 41 prospects in the pipeline.

However, with the natural turnover of members, we need all Compatriots to help grow membership by recruiting civic-minded individuals interested in honoring our patriot ancestors and enjoying good fellowship.

Take action today to enroll Sons and Grandsons, invite friends to join and encourage wives, daughters, and granddaughters to join the DAR and Chapter Women's Auxiliary.

Another important mission is expanding our relationships with all of the Palm Beach DAR Chapters. We welcome our DAR Patriot Daughters to all Chapter meetings and events, and sincerely appreciate their new member referrals and ongoing support. Thank you DAR!

Burning His Majesty's Schooner "Gaspee"….

Americas first attack on the Crown!

Compiled & Edited By Don Lanman, President Palm Beach Chapter SAR

Over one year before the Boston Tea Party, a group of colonial protestors captured and burned the British naval schooner Gaspee stationed in Rhode Island waters. The attack on HMS Schooner Gaspee well before the American Revolution helped accelerate tensions between Great Britain and its American colonies.

In early 1772, British Lieutenant William Dudingston arrived in Rhode Island's Narragansett Bay abroad the mighty HMS Gaspee and aggressively enforced customs collections and cargo inspections of all vessels.

Lieutenant Dudingston cracked down on American smugglers to be sure, but he also incited anger among colonists by harassing lawful ships too, and leading up to the colonial retaliation against the Gaspee.

The fateful events of June 10, 1772, when the Gaspee was attacked are chronicled in this excerpt from Steven Parks's new book "The Burning of His Majesties Schooner Gaspee".

Parks book frames the Gaspee episode as a pivotal spark that served to further ignite colonial resistance to British authority in the early-1770s....

"Thirty-six-year-old John Brown called for eight longboats, each carrying five pairs of oars requiring ten rowers, to assemble at Fenner's Wharf. Brown put his employee Abraham Whipple in charge of the operation. At age 39, Whipple was an accomplished seaman and the brother-in-law of Chief Justice Stephen Hopkins.

Daniel Pearce beat a drum along Main Street to call the raiders to Sabin's Tavern. Some men cast bullets in the kitchen of the tavern, and the raiders departed from Providence around 10:00 PM.

Relatively fit men would have had no trouble rowing against the tidal current to get to Namquid Point in two hours' time. If another longboat had joined them from Bristol, it had a greater distance to travel, but the advantage of rowing with the tide. One anonymous source reported that the men blackened their faces and hands.

Brown put a sea captain in charge of the tiller of each boat. Obviously, they could not hope to do anything until nightfall, and the month of June gave them the longest days of the year.

Coming out of Providence, they would have to row against a flooding tide and muffle their oars and oarlocks in order to approach the Gaspee undetected. The raiders would want to arrive after the moon had set, which indeed they did. ”

“In the darkness on June 10, 1772, Bartholomew Cheevers, the Gaspee's deck sentinel on watch at the time, spotted what he thought was just a pile of rocks, so he reported nothing.

At 12:45 AM, he hailed the approaching longboats asking them to identify themselves. Dudingston came on deck, clad in his nightshirt, and repeated the call.

Cheevers claimed that he tried to fire his musket but it misfired repeatedly. The commander called for light on the deck but had no success. He called for more small arms, but the arms chest was locked and the keys were down in his cabin. ”

“Surely Dudingston must have had some concern about the readiness of his crew. He did not have the added protection of the Beaver. He had only nineteen men on board at the time.

Indeed, he was on his way to Providence to pick up more men coming down from Boston. The men he had were below decks in their nightclothes, and tired from scraping the hull. The schooner's small arms chest was locked and the lanterns were not lit on deck.”

“Abraham Whipple raised his voice, identified himself as the sheriff of Kent County, and declared he was in possession of a warrant for Dudingston's arrest.

Dudingston hollered back that the sheriff should return at a more appropriate hour. When men tried to board near the starboard forward shrouds, Dudingston struck someone with his sword and cut him.

Then he called for all men on deck. Gaspee midshipman William Dickinson claimed that the men in the boats gave " three cheers" and that the Gaspee deck lookouts then fired upon the boats with muskets.

The men in the boats-Dickinson estimated half a dozen-returned musket fire, and the Gaspee lookouts responded with pistols. Already the raiding party was too close for the Gaspee to use its larger cannon; besides, the attackers approached directly at the bow. Ephraim Bowen claimed that he gave his gun to Joseph Bucklin, who proceeded to fire only one shot, which hit Dudingston in the left arm and groin.

A minute later they boarded without further opposition over the starboard bow and quarter, not the more accessible stern. This indicates that the Gaspee was still listing significantly to starboard.

Gaspee midshipman Dickinson estimated that thirty or forty men (out of 150-200 total) boarded and overwhelmed the British schooner's crew. With their commander down, the crew was forced to surrender. The Rhode Islanders calling themselves the "captain" and the "head sheriff" gave their word that the Gaspee crew would not be harmed."

"The raiding party seemed specifically interested in Dudingston and the pilot, Mr. Sylvanus Daggett. Local pilots who helped Royal Navy and customs vessels navigate the shallow waters that were utilized by smugglers were not popular among merchants and seafarers.

While the raiders had brought doctors with them, they did not immediately tend Dudingston's wounds. Perhaps they expected to treat members of the raiding party only.

Whipple and Brown allowed Dudingston to bleed on the deck, and later claimed that they thought he had been shot by his own men. Still not certain whether to let the lieutenant live or not, they made him beg for his life.

They had Dickinson tied up in one of the boats for a half hour before he was summoned back onto the Gaspee to carry the lieutenant below. Apparently Whipple and Brown later rethought their actions and asked the commander if he had a surgeon on board. When he said that he had none, the raiders brought Dr. John Mawney up from the stern of one of the boats.

Dudingston apparently wanted Dickinson to help them find material and make bandages. Dickinson went below and showed the "ringleaders of the mob" the officers' commissions, orders, and instructions, which the raiders took. This, of course, also gave the officers the much-needed artificial light to see the faces of their adversaries for later identification.

Some of the papers went into the raiders' pockets; others went over the side and may or may not have made it into the boats. Regardless, the "ringleaders" saw Dudingston's commissions and deputations, and therefore could not claim that they thought Dudingston was acting without orders.

Dickinson also claimed that he saw a "negro" (his word) holding Dudingston's sword. Peter May, a Gaspee mariner, testified that the raiders wanted remuneration for Jacob Greene's seized rum. They would take Dudingston's personal effects in exchange and return him to the schooner. "

"The wounded Dudingston and his crew were herded aboard the raiders' boats. While the Gaspee officers and crew were still angry, or afraid, or both, something unexpected happened.

The dark, now moonless night sky of Narragansett Bay suddenly filled with a bright light as the schooner, which had been their home and fortress, burst into flames. Was it set aflame intentionally? Was it an accident?

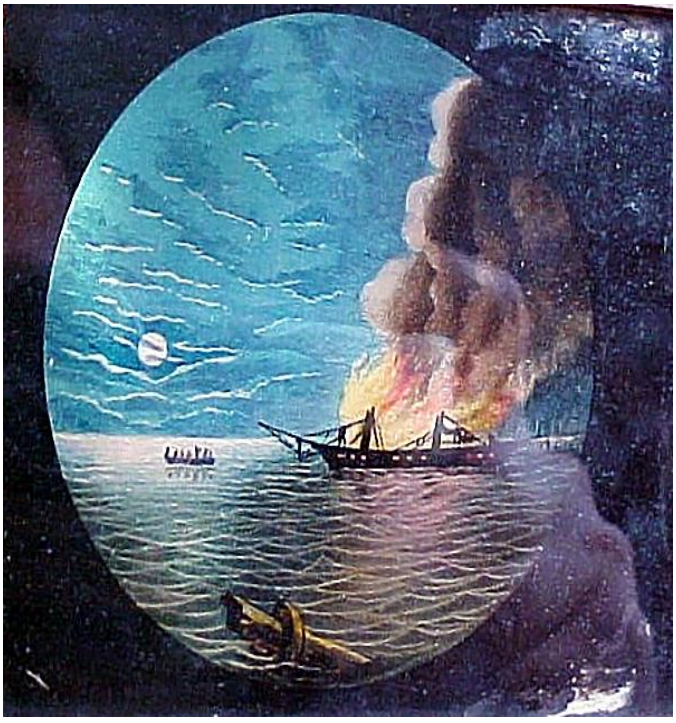

They watched from the boats as they were rowed quietly away; when the flames finally reached the powder magazine buried deep in the hull for protection, a dramatic explosion occurred that must have been heard for miles around.

Light and sound filled the normally quiet coast, and Rhode Islanders were awakened from their slumber. There was very little of the Gaspee left to salvage.

The Gaspee crew could see other longboats returning to Cranston and Providence. Ephraim Bowen, in his later recollection of events that night, claimed that it was the leaders of the raid who returned to burn the vessel, not some rogue element."

Land of the Free - Because of the Brave

Veterans Day Tribute

By Don Lanman, US Army, President Palm Beach Chapter SAR

Since the birth of our Nation, American Patriots of every race, color, creed, gender and national origin have come forward to serve our country and defend the founding fathers vision for a Nation of the people, by the people and for the people.

With honor, distinction and sacrifice, these generations of men and women risked their lives and fortunes to win our independence, preserve our Union, and secure our freedom.

Beginning with the Minutemen at Concord, American heroes have served unselfishly so that our children might live in a world that is safer, freer, and more just than any other nation in history, and to them we owe a profound debt of gratitude.

This Veterans Day, we salute the long grey line of Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Marines, Coast Guard, and Merchant Marine veterans who have rendered the highest service any American can offer.

For each day that we live under the banner of freedom, they secured, we have a solemn obligation to serve these veterans as well as they have served us and to help them return to civilian life by assuring that they have the resources and benefits they have rightly earned.

Working together, we must help heal the wounds of conflict, PTSD, to end the tragedy of homelessness among our veterans by remaining committed to providing all veterans with quality health care, access to education, employment, and the resources they need to transition to civilian life.

The Millions of veterans who fought to protect our democracy around the globe are now strengthening that very democracy here at home. They have the experience, skills, loyalty and dedication necessary to achieve success as productive members of our civilian workforce, and we must strengthen our society with their talent.

Trained and tested in the Armed Forces, our Veterans are the new pioneers of industry, entrepreneurs, small business owners, and leaders within their communities.

Their faith, service, and character reflects both the unique and enduring American spirit, and serves as an example of motivation, inspiration, and strength for all Americans.

This Veterans Day, and every day, we should pay tribute to America's sons and daughters who have answered our country's call. Recognize the sacrifice of those who have been part of the finest military the world has ever known and the loved ones who stand beside them.

Especially Honor those fallen heroes who made the ultimate sacrifice at the “Alter of Freedom” and never forget those who have yet to return home.

As grateful Americans, we must honor their service through private prayers of thanks, appropriate public ceremonies, and participation in patriotic activities including civic, social, and fraternal organizations, places of worship, schools, and community centers.

We live in a Land of the Free because of the Brave, so this Veterans Day display the flag of the United States of America in recognition of the valor and sacrifice of all service members and Veterans!

Join fellow Americans with a warm welcome home, and “Thank You for Your Service”!
